EAST PRESCOTT'S NEED.

Two fires, occurring within a week of each other, in the east part of town suggests that the location of a hose cart in that part of town would be a great convenience and would afford better fire protection. It is a long haul pull to draw the fire apparatus up the hill and particularly at night when there are no horses to assist in getting them up. While the boys were tugging and pulling last night getting their apparatus up the hill, when there are few persons on the street to help them, and no horses available to assist them. Several years ago an old cart and some old hose was given to the residents of East Prescott and it was located in a shed in R. H. Burmeister's premises on Mt. Vernon avenue. There were no horses to pull it, and it was not used for years, during the time it was there, no fire occurred, and both cart and hose became useless. Not only is a cart and hose needed there, but there should be some sort of an organized company to look after it and get it to the scene of action in case of fire.

CRIME OF GRAFTING.

In a recent issue of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle appeared a "symposium" on the subject of "grafting." It consisted of a number of short papers by men more or less prominent in different callings. Without exception, the criticism is directed against a certain class, dangerous to the public well-being, and even "threatening the very existence of the nation." The leading paper in the series is by Frederick Upham Adams, who closes his vigorous contribution as follows: "The greater the effort, the more business interests; the beam of those who carry away by the lust of greed that they do not hesitate to plunder their fellow citizens through the bribed co-operation of those who are paid to protect their interests. 'In foreign countries, which make no claim to the liberty which is our heritage, they are partly recompensed by the service of the officials who find honor and pleasure in the just and careful administration of the duties of the positions. The great municipalities of England, and the cities who have served the country and amassed an honest competence as a business or professional man, look forward after middle age to the possibility that the ripe years of his life may be called into requisition by the community of which he is a part. Such men fill the higher 'elective and appointive positions, serving generally without pay, and finding their reward in the appreciation of those who have honored them by their confidence. The great engineering works completed in recent years have been planned and supervised by men whose only pay was the applause of their fellows. The great public utilities of Glasgow, Birmingham, Manchester and London are in charge of men whose lives and acts are beyond the reach of criticism. Bribery is a crime in England; it is a profession in our beloved country.

"We have blurred and well high obliterated the line which separates honesty from dishonesty. We have considered honesty as a policy and not as a virtue. The shrewd trading and business instinct of the former generations has degenerated in many instances into an overreaching and unscrupulous avarice. The 'tricks of trade' had not for fall to become the crimes of business. "Powerful and seemingly unassailable as is this alliance between criminal interests and criminal officials, it will be ground to powder when once the American people realize the shame which has crept upon them. There is leaving a revolution against venality, whether of the tap room or of the counting room. When it bursts it will fill the jails with strangely assorted criminals. There will come a day when honesty will no longer be the subject of a sneer."

TO RESTRICT IMMIGRATION.

A Washington telegram of recent date gives the cheering information that immigration and its further restriction will surely receive a great deal of attention at the coming congress. More effective exclusion of the undesirable element in the annual foreign infusion into the population of the United States, which has grown nearly to a million persons a year, is the purpose of a bill introduced by Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts. Mr. Lodge is a member of the immigration committee, of which Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, has been chairman.

Mr. Penrose is credited with having done the best he could in obtaining the passage of the immigration bill of last winter. Unsatisfactory as that measure has proven to be it was pushed through only with great effort against the combined influence of certain steamship and railway companies that find profit in heavy and indiscriminate carriage of immigrants. The new chairman of the immigration committee will be Senator Dillingham, of Vermont. The chief additional restriction proposed by Senator Lodge is the exclusion of all persons over fifteen years of age who cannot read and write. It is possible to include in his measure the medical inspection of immigrants at their ports of embarkation. This would tend to check the influx of disease and would be in accordance with the recommendation of the committee of immigration, Frank P. Sanborn. The moral qualifications of immigrants may be considered in connection with the bill for the protection of the life of the president, in so far as that measure relates to foreign anarchists. That, however, is a distinct subject, and it may have its own bearing upon the suggestion that an attempt be renewed this winter to negotiate an arbitration treaty with England in which the question of broader extradition could be included.

In the last fiscal year there were 102,000 immigrants under fourteen years of age, out of the total of 857,046. There are no statistics available of illiteracy under fourteen years, but it is assumed that its proportion is at least as high as among those above fourteen, where it was nearly two out of every seven. The president has shown keen interest in this subject, to which he is expected to devote particular attention in his annual message. He has extended his moral support steadily to Commissioner General Sargent, whose vigorous enforcement of the law and earnest recommendations for its greater rigor would have embarrassed him without that support. As it is, Mr. Sargent's labors have been so arduous that he is now recovering from a serious illness caused by overwork.

The president is in accord with his advice that the immigration station on Ellis Island is unsuited to its purpose and that an appropriation for its remodeling and enlargement is advisable. An interesting find which will attract much attention from students of archeology has been made by miners on a new shaft sunk by the Weir Junction Coal company of Reed Pass, south of Cherokee, Kansas. The miners found imbedded in fire clay below the second vein of coal, at a depth of fifty feet, a box made of bark, containing three arrowheads crudely made of flint rock, and the two veins of coal had not been disturbed. The find seems therefore to prove that human life antedated the carboniferous era. Scientists are most interested in this discovery.

According to plans now under consideration, the New York Central railway is to be equipped with an electric system which will definitely establish the theory that steam as a motive power for railroads has been superseded. Contracts for the work, involving between fifteen and twenty millions of dollars, are said to have been already awarded. If the project is brought to completion, which should be within five years, virtually all the trains on the New York Central within a radius of fifty miles will be hauled by electricity.

Ferdinand Morton, a colored boy, will represent Harvard college in her annual debate with Yale in place of T. H. Reed of Allston, Mass., whose health has been under study and by their activities including work in the Anti-Liquor league. Morton, whose home is in Washington, D. C., is a graduate of Phillips Exeter academy and an exceptional student.

Santa Barbara, California, had an election the other day at which the socialists put up a candidate for mayor against the republican candidate. These were the only candidates and of course the socialist received a goodly support from the democrats who are not socialists. The result was a victory for the republican candidate by a vote of two to one. An amendment to the city charter providing for the initiative and referendum was also among the issues and was overwhelmingly defeated.

A telegram from St. Louis says that Mrs. Ruth Bryan Leavitt, daughter of W. J. Bryan, who, with her husband, is spending their honeymoon at Hannibal, Missouri, writes to a friend in the former city that Mr. Leavitt has decided to abandon his former calling of an artist and will engage in politics. He expects to run for congress on the republican ticket next year in the district in which Hannibal is located.

PECULIARITIES OF FORMATION IN BIG BUG BEING EXPLORED

Interesting Story of Chunks of Gold Found Clinging to Crevices in Rock of Old Mesa Gold Company's Property.

Papers have just been prepared by Herndon & Norris, attorneys for the Old Mesa Gold company, for a contract which has been awarded to the mine contracting firm of Hahnel, Jones & Shearn, on what is known as the Old Mesa tunnel in upper Big Bug which adjoins the Poland Mines. This tunnel is being driven for the purpose of catching the Old Mesa ledge at great depth, which is known to be a very rich one. The contract is for the purpose of continuing the tunnel which is already into the mountain 380 feet. This is one of the most important undertakings in Northern Arizona, and the progress of the work will be watched with great interest. The old timers of Yavapai county, all of whom seem to be familiar with this property, say that it is the making of one of the great gold mines in the territory of Arizona. There are some very interesting features and peculiarities connected with this property, which are known to have existed when it was worked years ago, at the time when a great part of the inhabitants of Yavapai county were Indians. This old ledge for which the long tunnel is being driven, was known in the early days of Arizona as the Old Mesa Mine. At that time the only means of extracting the free gold from the quartz, was by the old Mexican arrastra process, and a small water wheel, the motor power. During the short period that the Old Mesa was worked, it was a known fact that four or five men took therefrom forty thousand dollars in free gold, extracted through the old arrastra which was on the creek, which is the present M. Salazar, the merchant of Williams, Arizona; D. E. Davis, mining superintendent of Providence, Arizona, and R. H. Gray, mining superintendent of Poland, Arizona.

It is supposed that the Old Mesa ledge will be exposed in this tunnel at a distance of about 800 feet from the mouth. The distance depends wholly upon the pitch of the ledge at the point where the tunnel will intersect it. If the same amount of ore is found in solid formation in this tunnel, it is in sight now near the mountain side on which the property is located, and the shareholders in this enterprise will be well repaid for their investment. Ed Block, the general manager of the company, shipped to the mine to-day 200 feet of six inch pipe and 300 feet of rail and other supplies. The company intends pushing their tunnel vigorously to completion.

Union of Two Orders.

All members of the United Moderns in this city have received a circular letter informing them of the consolidation of the United Moderns, one of the leading western fraternal orders, with The Grand Fraternity, one of the leading fraternal orders, the consolidation having recently been made. The consolidation of the two orders is said to make one of the most substantial insurance organizations in the United States, extending in scope from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans. This circular letter, among other things, says: "No change of which management or lodge work is contemplated, except such as shall be found imperatively necessary in the interest of economy of management and rapid advancement of growth. As the territory in which the two associations operate is almost wholly divided, the united order will at once occupy about double the amount of territory in which each is now operating, and this without the great initial expense always consequent upon the developing of new territory. The bringing together of the separate managements will add new vigor to both orders, and their large experience, when combined in united effort, will greatly advance the common welfare of the entire membership."

NEWSY LETTER FROM PANAMA

By a Former Prescott Young Man.

Sampson Harris, an Electrician on the Wyoming, Writes Interestingly of Events There.

The following letter was received yesterday by Mrs. Addie Harris in this city, from her son, Sampson Harris, who is well known here, having worked for the Prescott Electric company for two or three years, but who is at present an electrician on the coast defense monitor, Wyoming, which is a part of the U. S. fleet at Panama.

"We left San Francisco on the afternoon of the 23d of October, bound for Acapulco, Mexico. The fleet consisted of the Marblehead, Concord and Wyoming. Nothing worthy of mention happened on the trip. We had the regular drill that a fleet always has on a sea trip—that is we had 'general quarters,' which is the stations the men take in case of action, and we also had 'fire quarters,' which is in charge of a four inch ammunition hoist. We proceeded along at the rate of ten knots an hour for nine days arriving in Acapulco on October 31, where we remained for five days, and sailed the ship.

"Acapulco is an old Mexican seaport. It is the port where Mexico used to export all her stuff to China. The city is built at the base of a hill and has no streets, all the buildings being one story high. By the way, I forgot to tell you about the volcano we saw about a hundred miles above Acapulco. It was a very fine sight, an active volcano, of which there are a great many along this coast, but this one erupted just as we were passing by and it was a great sight. A great cloud of smoke shot up in the air for hundreds of feet and it looked as if the whole top of the mountain was on fire.

"The city of Acapulco has a population of about 60,000 people, and there is a Mexican fort there which was built by the U. S. S. Independence, now the receiving ship at Mare Island, during the Mexican war, and you can see the ruins of the fort and the rocks and torn up. It is a very poor port and is used now as a prison for government prisoners. They stay there in dark dungeons, some of them for life, which don't seem to me to last long in that place.

"All around the city is a confusion of vegetation of all kinds—coconut, banana and lime trees all growing wild. All kinds of monkeys and parrots can be seen in these trees. I climbed one of the coconut trees and got some nuts. It is pretty hard to get them, the trees are so slender and there are no limbs, there being only a little bunch of leaves at the top and the nuts are clustered in these leaves.

"Here we got orders to go to Panama and the fleet started to sail. The Marblehead, Concord and Wyoming were the last to leave, and we waited for the mail and left on the fifth full speed for Panama. We did not know that anything was wrong at the time.

"Nothing happened until on the night of the 11th, when about eleven o'clock we sighted two ships. Both were sent for only one day, and we turned the search lights on them and they proceeded to get away as fast as possible. We did not follow them as we did not know what was up. When we got into Panama on the 12th we found the state of Panama, Republic of Colombia, declared itself to be a free and independent country and was immediately recognized as a republic by the United States and later by England, Germany and other countries. At the time of the declaration there were three Colombian men of war in the harbor, and a British man of war. Two of the Colombian ships hoisted the Panama flag and the other refused, whereupon the first two opened fire on it and chased it out of the harbor. The night is one of the most beautiful in the world, and the ships we met, and had we known what they were we would have soon stopped them.

"Five hundred spies were sent into Panama by Colombia a few days ago to kill the leaders of the Panama revolution, but it leaked out and they were all captured and are now being held.

"Panama's forces consist of 10,000 well armed men and the coast is being patrolled by American men of war, and we on the west side so I think that Panama will have very little trouble maintaining her independence and then all trouble about the Panama canal will be over.

"This country is certainly one of revolutions, as they have one every morning before breakfast, just by way of pastime.

"We are anchored along side of an old Colombian war ship that was sunk by the revolutionists in 1900. Her masts still show above the water."

Change of Building.

The Board of School Trustees met last night and awarded the contract of remodeling the high school building to Henry and Burbanck. The bids were as follows: Fiffel & Gallagher, $325; H. M. Co., $325; Maxwell & Sines, $400; J. A. Peit, not including 170 feet of retaining wall, $450; Henry & Burbanck, $449.

The successful contractors will commence work at once.

The changes and improvements to be made will consist of taking the partitions out of the upper story of the building and making it into one room with a raised platform or stage at one end, putting in physical and chemical laboratory, making a nice concrete entrance to the building and building a retaining wall along the front of the lot. The latter will be built of the new sand brick

Colder in the North.

"Colder in the north." This was the weather prediction for Arizona sent out on Thursday by the weather bureau. Cold chills commenced chasing each other up and down the back of the telegraph operator as he took the message off the wires for the Highlands and other constitutional methods.

After carefully canvassing the situation it was decided that it was best to adopt the name and charter of The Grand Fraternity for that of the United Moderns. The Grand Fraternity has the older and more favorable charter, it having been obtained under the liberal fraternal insurance law of the state of Pennsylvania, which cannot be unfavorably amended.

The ritual, lodge and paraphernalia of the United Moderns have been adopted by the consolidated order. No action whatever is necessary on the part of members to make them members of the consolidated order. The United Modern certificates are, and will continue to be, in full force and effect.
